Election/Restrictions

1. This application contains claims directed to more than one species of the generic invention. These species are deemed to lack unity of invention because they are not so linked as to form a single general inventive concept under PCT Rule 13.1.

The species are as follows:

- Species A, Rubber member formed of composition (r1)
- Species B, Rubber member formed of rubber composition (r2)
- Species C, Rubber member formed of composition (r3)

Additionally, the claims as currently drafted disclose the following sub species:

- Sub Species 1, Rubber member is disposed in the bead portion
- Sub Species 2, Rubber member is disposed in the sidewall portion

Applicant is required, in reply to this action, to elect a single species to which the claims shall be restricted if no generic claim is finally held to be allowable. The reply must also identify the claims readable on the elected species, including any claims subsequently added. An argument that a claim is allowable or that all claims are generic is considered non-responsive unless accompanied by an election.

Upon the allowance of a generic claim, applicant will be entitled to consideration of claims to additional species which are written in dependent form or otherwise include all the limitations of an allowed generic claim as provided by 37 CFR 1.141. If claims are added after the election, applicant must indicate which are readable upon the elected species. MPEP § 809.02(a).

2. The claims are deemed to correspond to the species listed above in the following manner:

- Group A1 (corresponds to Species A, Sub species 1): claims 1, 2, and 38
- Group A2 (corresponds to Species A, Sub species 2): claims 1, 2, 38, 39, and 40
- Group B1 (corresponds to Species B, Sub species 1): claims 3-21 and 30-38
- Group B2 (corresponds to Species B, Sub species 2): claims 3-21 and 30-38
- Group C1 (corresponds to Species C, Sub species 1): claims 22-29 and 38
- Group C2 (corresponds to Species C, Sub species 2): claims 22-29 and 38

3. The species listed above do not relate to a single general inventive concept under PCT Rule 13.1 because, under PCT Rule 13.2, the species lack the same or corresponding special technical features for the following reasons: each of the tire constructions contains a rubber member formed of a different rubber composition- the respective rubber compositions constitute the special technical feature and thus the same technical feature is not shared by the above noted species. The only feature(s) that are shared between the respective species is a tire having two bead portions, a carcass layer, a pair of sidewall portions, and at least one of a rubber member disposed in the sidewall portion or the bead portion- these features represent nothing more than the fundamental structure of modern day tires. It is further noted that the alternative rubber compositions are not seen to be "of a similar nature" as is required to satisfy the unity of invention standard (See MPEP 1850). This argument is similarly applicable to the additional species between a tire having a specific rubber member in the bead or the sidewall- in particular, the respective embodiments do not contain a common special technical feature and the alternative tire constructions are not "of a similar nature".

4. A telephone call was made to Steven Gruskin on April 5, 2004 to request an oral election to the above restriction requirement, but did not result in an election being made.

Applicant is advised that the reply to this requirement to be complete must include an election of the invention to be examined even though the requirement be traversed (37 CFR 1.143).
